South Vietnam (AP) — The Saigon command said its troops pushed North forces out of a provincial capital in a fierce battle that was watched in indicator of whether the South army has a will to fight.

South Vietnamese troops attacked Xuan Loc, a major city in the Saigon region, and took control of three-fourths of South Vietnam's demoralized troops withdrew from central, northern and is last month, and communist-led appear to be trying to capture the

In Saigon, a Viet Cong spokesman said the pilot who bombed President Nguyen Van Thieu's palace Tuesday had landed his F5 fighter-bomber at a Viet Cong-held airfield. Thieu, who is widely blamed for the military losses, was not hurt, but at least two persons were killed.

Air force officials said the flier had acted alone, but political sources said more opposition politicians went into hiding to avoid a new police crack-down on dissent.

French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing told his cabinet in Paris the South Vietnamese government must be in the hands of persons willing to resume political negotiations with the Viet Cong, a statement interpreted by French political observers as a demand for Thieu's resignation.

French officials reportedly have held talks with South Vietnamese nationalists in search of ways to reopen negotiations. The Viet Cong reportedly had said it will not negotiate an end to the fighting as long as Thieu leads the Saigon government. Thieu says he will not quit and will not form a coalition with the Viet Cong.

In Washington, President Ford was quoted as telling congressional leaders there are "no private agreements" between the United States and South Vietnam.

Ford met with Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate less than an hour after his press secretary, Ron Nessen, said former President Richard M. Nixon had assured Saigon leaders in "confidential exchanges" prior to signing the 1973 Paris peace agreements that the United States would "react vigorously" to any violations by Hanoi of the accords.

By implication, Nessen indicated Nixon might have been prepared to intervene militarily but for congressional passage of a law that ruled out a return of U.S. forces to Vietnam. His statement came one day after there had been "secret agreements" between the Nixon administration and South Vietnam.

In neighboring Cambodia, Communist-led Khmer Rouge insurgents penetrated Phnom Penh's northern defense line at Stung Kamboj seven miles north of the city, but field reports said government forces had driven the rebels from the market at the center of Kompong Speu, 30 miles to the west.

The reports said rebels drove defenders from a former combat police fort and an abandoned refugee camp at Stung Kamboj, then dug in and were under counterattack by government troops. Soldiers also reported that the Khmer Rouge massacred or abducted 100 recruits at a training center overrun two days ago southeast of Phnom Penh.

Cornerstone rites to open Centennial

By CRAIG THOMPSON

Universe Staff Writer

The opening of the Karl G. Maeser Memorial Building cornerstone, president's reception and graduation banquet will precede the official opening of the Centennial year during the 100th commencement exercises at BYU.

The Maeser Building cornerstone, which was laid by President Joseph F. Smith on Oct. 16, 1909, will be opened at ceremonies on April 17 at 10:30 a.m., according to Bruce L. Olsen, director of university relations.

The actual cutting into the stone, which contains a metal box filled with many mementos of the time, will be performed by Karl Miller, retired BYU Physical Plant official who was present in 1909 when the stone was sealed and laid. Special invitations to the event are being sent to more than 250 sons and daughters of teachers who were on the faculty of the university when the building was erected.

Graduates and their parents are invited to an informal reception April 17 from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in the Memorial Lounge, ELWC, where they can greet Pres. Dallin H. Oaks. There is no cost for the reception and refreshments will be served, according to Olsen.

The graduation banquet will also be held April 17 beginning at 7 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Wilkinson Center, according to Duane B. Chase, coordinator of alumni programs.

George Mardikian, author, lecturer and owner of Omar Khayyam's restaurant in San Francisco, will be the featured speaker.

Graduates and their families will also hear from Mrs. Phyllis Brown Marriott, American Mother of the Year for 1974-75, who will represent the parents. Greg Hill, a graduating senior in English from Houghton, Miss., will represent the students.

On April 18, graduates should be assembled by 8:45 a.m., according to instructions contained in the graduation booklet they received from the Alumni House when they picked up caps and gowns.

Elder Boyd K. Packer of the Council of the Twelve will conduct and Elder William H. Bennett, Assistant to the Twelve, will offer the invocation at the commencement exercises beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Marriott Center.

The BYU A Cappella Choir and Philharmonic Orchestra, who, according to Olsen, made special arrangements with members of the two groups to remain in Provo especially for commencement, will perform "My God Hath Been My Support."

After presentation of special awards and welcoming of graduates into the alumni, Pres. Oaks will present the Centennial message to begin the BYU centennial observance officially.

The A Cappella Choir will then present a musical number followed by an address by Dr. Leonard J. Arrington, LDS Church historian and keynote speaker for the commencement.

Graduates and their guests will then hear from Elder Packer followed by the singing of the Centennial hymn. The A Cappella Choir will sing the first verse and the second and third verses will be sung by the audience.

Jae R. Ballif, dean of the college of physical and mathematical sciences, will offer the benediction. It will be followed by the recessional of graduates.

Services held for Pres. Chiang

TAIPEI (AP) — Crowds 10 deep lined the 15-mile route as the body of President Chiang Kai-Shek was carried to the Sun Yat-sen Memorial at noon Wednesday and placed in state there.

Some of the onlookers knelt in prayer. Thousands burned incense sticks and candles on improvised Buddhist altars for the 87-year-old Generalissimo, a Christian convert.

Preceded by a military band and honor guard, the glistening black coffin rode on a military truck from the Veterans' Hospital, where Chiang died Saturday night. Hundreds of nurses held burning incense sticks as the coffin left the hospital.

Atop it was a white floral cross placed there by Mme. Chiang. The truck was covered with flowers and also carried a picture of the Generalissimo.

The 74-year-old widow, clad in black and wearing dark glasses, rode in a black limousine behind the coffin, accompanied by Chiang's two sons by his first wife: Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, 65, and Gen. Chiang Wei-kuo, 58.

It was Mme. Chiang's first public appearance since the death of her husband. Chiang's successor as president, C. K. Yen, followed in another car.

Twelve pallbearers carried the coffin into the auditorium of the memorial.

"The crowds outside chanted, 'The spirit of President Chiang will never die.' Officials and their families leaving the memorial were red-eyed, and some still wept.

The memorial will be open to the public from Thursday until next Monday. Two days later on April 16, Chiang will be buried in the little mountain village of Tsihsu, one of his favorite retreats.

A Christian service will precede the burial. But the state funeral will be postponed indefinitely in the hope that someday it can be held on the mainland, which Chiang lost in 1949 to the Communists.

Utah club plans flight of orphans

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Utah air travel club says it's working on plans to fly a plane load of Vietnamese orphans from Saigon to Salt Lake City.

Jack Elliott of Salt Lake City, owner of two DC-8 aircraft, said Tuesday he is working with David Brown, a Salt Lake City attorney and president of the Air Caledonia Travel Club.

Also involved in the plans are an Ogden-based adoption agency, the International Family Unification Service, and the office of Rep. Allan Howe, D-Utah.

Elliott said tentative approval has been given by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to bring Vietnamese orphans directly to Salt Lake City.

Elliott said it is hoped that most or all of the $100,000 needed for the round trip can be raised through $50 donation by club members and other donations from interested persons or organizations.

Ford says no on secret ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told bipartisan congressional leaders Wednesday he has reviewed confidential records of the Nixon administration and has found no evidence of any secret agreement between Washington and Saigon.

Ford inspected what his press secretary called "confidential exchanges" in which resigned President Richard M. Nixon assured the Saigon government the United States would "react vigorously" to any military offensive by Hanoi.

There apparently was no conflict between Ford's reference to "no secret agreements" and Press Secretary Ron Nessen's disclosure of "confidential exchanges."

Nessen had said that "in substance the private exchanges do not differ from what was stated publicly."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., contended Tuesday there had been "secret agreements" between the Nixon administration and Saigon officials.

Jackson said later that Nessen's statement is "only a partial disclosure."

Menard met with 16 Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress to discuss the major foreign policy address he will deliver at a joint Senate-House session at 9 p.m. EDT today.

The action came as senators neared the end of debate on a bill requiring joint state-fuel controls to conserve fuel and reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

The measure also gives the President standby authority, subject to congressional approval, to ration gasoline and take other emergency actions if the nation faces another cutoff of imported oil.

By a 69-21 vote, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, that would have immediately cut the federal controls under which 60 per cent of the nation's oil production has been frozen at $5.25 a barrel.

It adopted, 68 to 21, an amendment by Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., requiring the Federal Energy Administration to write a conservation program which would cut fuel use by about 800,000 barrels of oil a day over the next 12 months.

That figure amounts to about a four per cent cut in the 20 million barrels of oil the United States is expected to be burning daily within the next year. However, the conservation could be made in other fuels, such as coal and nuclear energy, as well.

Meanwhile, Gorman Smith, an FEA official, told a news conference that there is no prospect of substantial rollbacks in utility rates from the correction of fuel overcharges to utility companies. The reason for higher utility bills is not primarily because of overcharges on fuel, he said.

At the Capitol, the House Ways and Means Committee resumed work on energy tax matters.

Hospital germs

By ROD COLLETT
Universe Staff Writer

For those assigned the awesome task of cleaning Utah Valley Hospital's 176,047 square feet, the fight for cleanliness against infection-causing germs and bacteria goes on.

According to Wallace Eklund, general services manager at the hospital, many people, including patients, do not realize the enormous amount of scraping, cleaning, wiping and polishing which his staff does every day.

The general services department of Utah Valley Hospital is directly responsible for cleaning the laboratories, business offices, floors, walls and restroom areas. Another assignment is the cleaning of all laundry for the hospital.

"This department tries to be preventative in nature by keeping bacteria from spreading, and to produce the kind of cleanliness which is conducive to patient recovery," said Eklund. He continued, "Our working force exists to kill bacteria which are infectious for patients, mainly those which cause secondary infections.

The effective methods used in making the hospital germfree as possible, is by the use of many types of chemicals and machines.

Tom Hooper, a representative from Vesta Laboratories of St. Louis which supplies over 53 per cent of the germicides used in this country, stated that with the use of various types of germicides, infectious bacteria can be held to a minimum. Otherwise the mortality rate of patients would be high.

"Even the equipment at the hospital functions for the purpose of stopping the spread of bacteria," said Hooper. The equipment Hooper was referring to are such gadgets as a micro-static vacuum cleaner which picks up micro bits of dust, and a dry foam-water extraction machine for cleaning carpets.

When a person thinks of all that cleaning, usually there are some unsung heroes; those who are always on their hands and knees.

Thelma Calley, the assistant executive housekeeper as she likes to be called, is the supervisor of 52 people responsible for the white-glove look to the hospital, and the 14 people who work the laundry.

According to Mrs. Calley, some patients do not realize what procedures are implemented for their health and safety. "Everyday, and even between patients, the linen is changed, the beds are completely washed out, including the mattresses," said Mrs. Calley.

Finally, with so much activity centered on cleanliness, there are the 14 "soldiers of the washroom," those who do all the laundry for the hospital.

According to Mrs. Calley, an average patient uses 17 lbs. of laundry a day, which includes clothing, sheets, bed spreads, towels, bath blankets and wash cloths.

The laundry personnel at the hospital use five different chemicals in washing to assume complete cleanliness, or as Mrs. Calley likes to say, "there's nothing closer to the patient than our linen."

Y professors awarded research fellowships

Commissioner Neal A. Maxwell of the LDS Church Educational System has named Dr. Richard L. Gunn and Dr. Grant Von Harrison as recipients of Commissioner's Research Fellowships for the 1975-76 academic year.

Fellowships are awarded annually to distinguished LDS scholars to help them prepare scholarly works for publication. Competition for the fellowships is open to LDS scholars within and without the Church Educational System.

Dr. Gunn is a professor of art and education at Brigham Young University. He will use the fellowship to develop ways of intensifying art appreciation among LDS peoples.

The professor believes modern man lives in "visual litter," and he plans to publish a work which will help people become more appreciative of the subtle beauties and aesthetic elements found in various art forms.

He also hopes to illustrate the role of art in the spiritual life of man.

Dr. Harrison is an associate professor of instructional psychology at BYU. He will use fellowship support to develop a special training system which would enable a bilingual person to teach someone else a foreign language.

The system utilizes Dr. Harrison's "structured tutoring model" techniques, which have proved highly successful in overcoming illiteracy among disadvantaged peoples.

City commission OKs water rate increases

By DERIN HEAD
Universe Staff Writer

Most Provo residents will experience a $2.60 increase in their monthly water bills because of an ordinance enacted by the city commission Tuesday night.

According to Dean Wheadon, director of Provo's water and sewage department, the breakdown of the rate increase is $1 basic meter increase and $1.60 for the first 1,000 cubic feet of water.

An ordinance was also passed by the commission which would close private roads giving access to a motorcycle park in the Edgemont area. The main road in question is 650 East.

County residents who use city water will experience the largest rate increase as a result of the new ordinance. They will be required to pay triple the city rate, compared with their current double rate.

One reason listed by Wheadon for the rate increase was the skyrocketing cost of materials. The last increase in water usage rates was in 1963, and the department simply is not paying for itself, he said.

In 1973-74 the city has had to subsidize the water department by $46,753.37, Wheadon said.

The new ordinance also combined the city's water, sewage, irrigation and storm drainage departments into one department.

Wheadon said the average number of gallons of water per capita per day in Provo is 300, compared with the 125 national average.

"We have a lack of appreciation for our water and have wasted it," Wheadon claimed.

Wheadon explained the tripling of the county rates by saying that the county residents receive a large number of services from Provo City for which they do not pay.

In response to the question, "Are we driving new businesses out of Provo by our increased rates?" Wheadon explained that the old businesses should not have to subsidize the increased cost for the new business water connections.

Leave address for fall registration forms now

Current students will receive no information or materials for fall registration during the summer unless they make arrangements now.

According to Kay Harward, assistant registrar, students must come in to the Registration Office, B-150 ASB, and sign an envelope and mailing labels to receive fall registration forms.

Confirmation forms held up

Several students have not received their confirmation forms for spring term because of incorrect mailing information.

Kay Harward, assistant registrar, said that these students must contact the Registration Office, B-150 ASB, and pick up their forms. Finalization will be impossible without them, he added.

The problem is caused because students gave insufficient mailing information.

Harward estimates the number of returned confirmations at 60.

He added that if students wish to receive a fall schedule with their registration information, they must pay $1 and a schedule will be mailed to them.

Unless students come in now and sign mailing labels, they will receive no fall information, Harward stressed.

Mailing of fall schedules will begin near the end of May and continue through the first part of June, he added.

The reason for the increase in schedule prices from last year's 60 cent to the $1 charge this year is the increase in paper and postage rates, Harward explained.

May 5 date to pick up grade slip

Distribution of winter semester grades will be 394-396 ELWC.

Students who will not be in Provo and wish to have grade reports mailed to them must make arrangements with the Records Office, B150 ASB, according to Nancy H. Records Office.

Students must leave a self-addressed, stamped envelope with their Social Security number in the office to have grades mailed to them, she said.

Grades will be available after May 5 in the B-150 ASB, Mrs. Hiatt said.

Graduates may also have official transcripts of degrees printed on them mailed to them if the arrangements now, Mrs. Hiatt added. They must have these transcripts mailed to them.

Policewoman trained

By MAVANEE GLEAVE
Universe Staff Writer

Santa Barbara's first woman patrol officer, a 21-year-old BYU graduate, spoke to BYU law enforcement classes Tuesday concerning her duties.

Lorie Lofgren, the petite officer, said I'm not afraid of drunks. They are usually an easy way to learn babysitting procedures and by now most know me by name.

With six months experience under her badge and another 13 weeks of rigorous training at the police academy in Ventura, Calif., Miss Lofgren drives her own patrol car and says, "I have the same duties as other male patrol officers."

"I take all kinds of calls, including drunks, thefts and family fights." A back-up unit is always nearby in case of danger," said Miss Lofgren.

When I first started my job, I was soft-spoken and I have had to work on sounding more confident, she explained. My car, uniform and gear help to complete the look of authority. The more experience I get the more situations I find I can handle and the more confident I become, said Miss Lofgren.

People take orders from me just as well as they do from male officers, she said.

I have had my gun out two times, but never used it, said Miss Lofgren. We are taught never to take out our gun unless we intend to kill someone.

You can't play fair in that kind of situation, she added. You have to keep the advantage.

Miss Lofgren graduated from BYU and applied to several police departments including the Santa Barbara Department, whose 129 member staff already employed one woman detective.

"I never thought I would get the job, she said, "and I told them if I had to choose between a family and my job a family would come first. They hired me anyway."

There are a few drawbacks to being a woman patrol officer, she said.

A good majority of the policemen are single and divorced and I get asked out a lot, said Miss Lofgren. I decided to maintain a professional repertoire with the personnel by not accepting dates.

Policemen have the highest rate of divorce of any professionals. "I think the reason could be that it is such an involving job and there is a constant pressure to produce," she explained.

A police officer needs an understanding spouse, added Miss Lofgren.

I am ostracized to some degree because I associate mostly with the police force, but the LDS Church helps me.

"I've never worked harder to get to church on Sunday." I have to rush to my meetings as soon as I get off work, she continued.

In speaking of her future she said there are many other areas she could go into. She may work for her master's degree at a later date and go into education.

"For now, Santa Barbara, which is a little larger than Provo, has enough action for a city of its size to keep me busy," concluded Miss Lofgren.

"Behind every successful man is a struggling wife."

Y 'Knight' to function nationally

A BYU student has been elected to serve as the president of a national service fraternity, according to Dave Berrett, former local president and current chapter duke of the Inter-Collegiate Knights.

Emerson Pratt, a senior majoring in accounting from Phoenix, Ariz., was elected last Friday in a national convention of the Inter-Collegiate Knights held in Boise, Idaho. He was elected from representatives of 13 colleges and will be responsible for coordinating the activities of all the various chapters of the organization.

The Knights is a national fraternity whose main function is service. "We work at the university (BYU) distributing programs at athletic events, ushering at concerts at the Marriott Center, lighting the Y, and we're active in library-fund-raising projects," said Berrett. "We're going to light the Y Thursday the 17 of April in honor of the graduating students," he said.

Prelaw students create new class

By CHRIS COLE
Universe Staff Writer

"I'll find a way or make one!" This could well describe the attitude of a group of prelaw students as they created, organized and operated a new class on campus.

During this semester, 38 students participated in a class designed to improve their performance on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT), according to Steve Miller, president of the Prelaw Association.

"The results of this test are as important as grades in acceptance consideration at most law schools," explained Miller. "Since this type of preparatory class is offered in several other places in the country, we felt BYU students should also have an opportunity to prepare to score well," he said.

LSAT comprehensive The LSAT is a comprehensive, three-and-one-half hour examination required by all law schools. It tests such skills as reading comprehension, reading recall, data interpretation, error recognition, principles and cases, sentence correction, logical reasoning and practical judgment.

Action for creating the class began last spring when decisions were made on what needed to be taught and who should teach it. The class was then placed in the class schedule under the Honors Program.

In the fall, arrangements were made for seven teachers to donate their time in teaching segments of this three-credit-hour class. The teachers were briefed in the skills the students needed for each section.

Class Instruction
The class instruction consisted of the following: Don E. Norton of the English Department taught English grammar and usage; Dorothy Hansen of the Educational Psychology Department taught speed reading; and Dr. Noel B. Reynolds, chairman of the Philosophy Department, taught logic.

The principles and case study section was taught by Reese Hansen, dean of admissions of the J. Reuben Clark Law School; comprehension and study skills by Dr. Craig K. Mayfield of General Studies; analysis by Dr. A. Don Sorenson of political science; and semantics by Douglas H. Thayer of the English Department.

An experiment Not convinced of the value and potential success of the class, the administration would not initially approve its placement in a college department. It has therefore been conducted as an experiment under the Honors Program.

"Since the class does not belong to any college, it consequently has no funds," explained Miller. "One of the students donated his time to act as a teaching assistant in keeping the logistics of attendance and grades."

At the beginning of the semester, a sample of the complete LSAT was administered to the class. At the end, another full-length sample will be given to analyze progress.

During the course, students were given exercises in the various skills as well as repeated segments of sample LSAT. The final grade will be determined by performance on these assignments and by a term paper on self-analysis and individual improvement.

Submit proposal
"The plans of the Prelaw Association are to submit a written proposal with the results of the class to the administration," said Miller. "We hope it will be approved for a college department and taught as a regular class to all future students interested in applying to law school," he added.

The students and teachers said they feel the class has been a worthwhile experience, said Miller. He added that if approval were not yet possible, another experimental class would be held in the fall.

"I feel the class has been a definite help," said Dave Bednar, a junior in speech communications.

Sheepskin has shrunk!

As BYU approaches its 100th commencement on April 18, much attention is being given to the university's history and mementos of the past. Here Dr. Robert K. Thomas, academic vice president, displays a diploma which was awarded in 1900. The document, printed on vellum, is 19 by 15 inches in size, compared with the 6 by 8-inch diploma which will be awarded this Centennial year.

The 1900 diploma states: "The Board of Trustees and the Academic Faculty hereby confer on Elizabeth Harriet Maiben, who has completed the prescribed courses of instruction offered in the Academy, the Degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy. Dated the 31st day of May in the year 1900."

It is signed by David John, vice chairman of the board; Wilson H. Dusenberry, one of the original trustees and then secretary of the board; George H. Brimhall, acting president (Pres. Benjamin Cluff, Jr. was on an expedition to South America); and Edward H. Holt, secretary of the faculty.

Distribution of spiders in Utah deserts studied

By ALAN J. JOHNSTON
Universe Staff Writer

A BYU sponsored research program has been started to study the distribution of spiders in the desert areas of Utah.

Dr. Donald M. Allred, professor of zoology, will play a major part in the program with research into the spider population in the state, said Dr. A. Lester Allen, dean of the College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences.

Dr. Allred, an expert on spiders and author of articles on the subject, is highly experienced in this type of work. In past years he has been engaged in similar work for the atomic energy commission. He has studied the effects of nuclear bomb testing on the animal population in Nevada of the low-level radiation from reactors in Idaho and impact of electric generating plants in Southern Utah.

Although 138 different species of spiders were found in the three areas studied, only three species were found in all three areas, Dr. Allred said.

However, the was not one of "The black widow usually lives near out in the desert."

Although only black widow there is one bite on record. Provo was bitten in 1973, said Dr. A.

Dr. Allred said that many reports because of black are possibly. Although the spider is 15 times as rattlesnake's thickness of it that a probably not the average healthy.

Dr. Allred's widow is the found in Utah. Normally, it is poisonous to migrant desert. Contrary to popular opinion, it is usually harmless. "Tarantulas favorites in my says. 'My children and often let their arms.'"

Dr. Allred, current research involve more work, collecting and evaluating the large between the already investigating.

Researcher receives grant for catalyst study

The National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C. has awarded $49,000 to a BYU researcher to study new catalysts for methanation in coal gasification processes.

Grant recipient Dr. Calvin H. Bartholomew, assistant professor of chemical engineering, said he will use the research money to continue his studies of new nickel catalysts. He already has discovered better methods for manufacturing catalysts and has reported his findings before scientific organizations.

The NSF grant will cover two years of research, and Dr. Bartholomew hopes, among other things, to develop standard techniques for measuring catalyst areas.

Catalysts are important in the production of methane gas from coal and in air pollution control.

LDS history topic of panel

Dr. Leonard J. Arrington, LDS Church historian, and a Reorganized LDS Church historian, will discuss "What's Happening in Mormon History?" Friday, according to Larry C. Porter, professor of religious instruction.

The panel, scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Varsity Theater, ELWC, will be moderated by Dr. Truman G. Madsen. The public is invited to attend free of charge, Porter said. The discussion is in conjunction with the annual Mormon History Association convention, scheduled for April 11-13. Convention classes other than the panel discussion must be registered for through Special Courses and Conferences.

In addition to being LDS Church historian, Dr. Arrington is a nationally prominent scholar and author. He has been a visiting professor at BYU, UCLA and the University of Genoa, Italy.

Richard Howard received his M.A. in history from the University of California at Berkeley. He has published widely in the "Saint's Herald," a Reorganized Church monthly publication similar to the LDS "Ensign." Howard became the church's historian in 1968. He received the 1969 Mormon History Association annual book award for his work, "Reformation Scriptures." Porter said.

Dr. Madsen, moderator of the panel discussion, has been director of the Institute of Mormon Studies since 1966. Currently a professor of philosophy at BYU, Dr. Madsen enjoys a distinguished reputation as an author, educator and researcher.

Ireland to be topic of senior seminar

An International Relations senior seminar will offer a pictorial documentary, "Ireland, a Land Divided," today at noon in 321 ELWC.

"The purpose of this project is to inform the public and students about this international problem," said Rene Alva, a senior participant in the seminar.

A slide presentation of 600 slides outlines the growth of Ireland's unrest since 1967.

"The terrorist action in Ireland is credited to religious disputes," Alva said, "but there are some other, unrecognized causes."

"Since the violent termination of a three-month truce with British forces in Belfast, interest has increased in the Irish situation," said Alva.

The documentary will last 45 minutes and there is no charge for admittance.

Expert will outline drug peril to fetus

"Perils of Drugs During Pregnancy" will be discussed by a BYU professor of zoology, tonight at 8 in 446 MARR.

Dr. Robert E. Seegmiller's field of study is teratology, which is defined as birth defects and abnormal fetus development.

Presently Dr. Seegmiller is conducting a survey in Utah, analyzing the factors which are contributing to birth defects.

Campus Briefs

"By examining factors such as age, geographic location, status, and socio-economic status, in mothers who have had children with birth defects, we hope to be able to determine the potentially damaging ones," Dr. Seegmiller said.

Dr. Seegmiller said drugs are one of those factors which are known to have a detrimental influence upon the unborn child. The agenda will include an elections meeting for next year's officers. All PRSSA members and prospective members are invited to attend.

PRSSA meeting to be held Friday

The BYU Chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America will be holding its final meeting of this year Friday at 1 p.m. in 446 ELWC. The agenda will include an elections meeting for next year's officers. All PRSSA members and prospective members are invited to attend.

Russians Scientists meet still plan
joint flight

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet officials have assured the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) that the failure of a manned Soyuz space flight last weekend will not affect the joint U.S.-Soviet mission planned for July.

A member of NASA delegation visiting the Soviet Union in connection with the joint mission said Soviet officials told his group "categorically that the failure of the flight has no impact on their plans or their confidence" for July's Apollo-Soyuz linkup.

The Russians said Saturday's Soyuz 18 flight was brought back to earth shortly after takeoff because the third-stage rocket that was to put the spaceship into orbit veered off course. The two cosmonauts returned safely to earth, the announcement said.

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Experiments to prove conclusively whether or not spray can propellants are damaging the ozone could be performed during the next few months, two scientists said today.

Chemical industry spokesman have said three to five years would be needed to see whether the fluorocarbons, also called by the trade name Freon, are indeed damaging the protective ozone layer in the stratosphere.

"The research methods we propose won't take three years," said Dr. P. Sherwood Rowland of the University of California, Irvine.

"Experiments of this kind could be performed during the next two months," Rowland and Dr. Mario J. Molina, of the same university, made the latest contribution to the Freon controversy in a report to the 169th national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

The two scientists first announced their theory of ozone destruction by the man-made gases, also called chlorofluoromethanes, in June of last year at an ACS meeting.

The ozone layer, 10 to 25 miles above the earth, screens out harmful ultraviolet radiation from the sun. The radiation is a major cause of skin cancer.

Rowland, Molina and other scientists have called for a ban on manufacture of the gases. The industry has said more conclusive proof is needed regarding the theory. The major manufacturer is the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Freon, du Pont's trade name, is widely used in spray cans for personal products such as hair sprays, deodorants, antiperspirants and pharmaceuticals. It is also used as a refrigerant.

Rowland said new measurement techniques can be used now to check the destruction theory by trying to detect radioactive chlorine in fresh samples of stratospheric air.

The presence of radioactive chlorine would constitute evidence that ozone-depleting reactions are occurring. But the analysis would have to be done quickly because the radioactive chlorine decomposes rapidly, Rowland said.

The chlorofluoromethane gas is stable and builds into higher and higher concentrations in the lower atmosphere. As it spreads in the stratosphere, unscreened ultraviolet radiation hits it, releasing chlorine atoms which attack the ozone, the scientists believe.

Cut 1900 North speed,
Wyview residents ask

Residents of north Provo are currently engaged in a battle with the Utah State Highway Department over a proposed speed limit change on University Avenue near Wyview Park.

Donald Lowe, a BYU student resident of Wyview Park and spokesman for the citizens involved, circulated a letter to various news media and public officials last month, calling for a lowering of the speed limit along 1900 North at University Avenue from 50 to 35 miles per hour.

"They finally painted a cross-walk on the road, but there are still a lot of close calls," he added.

"Being on a busy street, it is dangerous for a lot of the highway people," she said. "But like everything else—they seem to have turned a deaf ear."

Mrs. Meyers added that the recent construction of a supermarket in the area has brought a new influx of traffic congestion to the neighborhood.

"We've recommended that, if a speed change can't be made, a traffic light or caution light be installed on University Avenue adjacent to the corner where the market is located," Barton said.

He added that since the inception and opening of Wyview Park three years ago, the Housing Office has been trying to have the speed regulated.

Still no clue here for organ's locale

By BARRY RISHTON
Universe Staff Writer

The whereabouts of the original Salt Lake Tabernacle organ which was built and installed by Joseph Ridges is still unknown. An article published about the organ in BYU's Monday Magazine (March 24, 1975; p. 14) stated that the original Ridges organ was located in the JSB Auditorium. The article brought response from Ephraim M. Hatch, BYU special projects coordinator. "That is not the original organ," Hatch said. He explained that the organ installed was one of the many revisions which occurred in the tabernacle and did not contain original pipes which Ridges made. Further interviews with J.J. Keeler, BYU organ professor, and Lynn H. Hansen, piano and organ technician, revealed the same facts: the organ was one of the revisions in the Tabernacle, but did not contain any of Ridges pipes. James R. Clark, religion professor, had some doubts about which pipes were in the JSB Auditorium. He was hired to help with the installation of the organ. "I was a bookbinder, so they hired me to do the leathering in the organ."

Clark doesn't remember well which pipes arrived at BYU and whether or not they were from the original Tabernacle Organ. He does say he has one of the pipes Ridges made, which was sent down to BYU by mistake. Melvin Dunn, Tabernacle organ technician, said he doesn't know where the old Ridges organ is today. "The pipes were sent south," he said and further explained that some of the pipes were used in the Assembly Hall organ on Temple Square for some time, but were later removed. "The golden 32-foot pipes you see on the facade of the Tabernacle organ are original Ridges pipes," Dunn said. He then entered the organ and showed another flute stop which was also built by Ridges. Dunn explained that he can only account for the pipes which are now located in the Tabernacle, the rest are lost. Dr. Alexander Schreiner, Tabernacle organist, also said that he doesn't know where the original organ is. "Ridges didn't put his name on it," he said. He added that it would be almost impossible to find the organ pipes, since the Tabernacle Organ has had so many revisions. Dr. Schreiner said that he has looked for the keyboards which belonged to the original organ, but has not found them.

Book buy-back Professor finds begins Friday

Textbook buy-back will begin on Friday and continue until April 17. Rodger Utley, BYU bookstore director, said the sale will take place on the third floor of ELWC, and will be handled by Nebraska Book, a wholesale book company. Nebraska Book generally pays in cash, said Utley. Nebraska Book will have the list of those books which will be used again and discontinued books, said Utley. They will buy both those books that BYU will not use again, and books that will be continued.

Although news executives over the U.S. are being flooded with job applications, the journalism school graduate can still get a job. But he or she must have the skills required, must be able to perform under deadline pressure, must make a smart (not cocky) approach to the editor or news director and must persevere in his job-seeking. This is the conclusion of Dr. Edwin O. Haroldsen,

BYU professor of broadcast news executives in his research for the article of the November 1974 issue of Quill, the national magazine published in Chicago by the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi. Dr. Haroldsen, former Chicago regional editor of U.S. News & World Report, polled 30 representative wire service, newspaper and broadcast news executives in his research for the article. Among his findings: — News executives look for young people with intelligence, dedication, a broad education, practical experience, writing ability, typing and other skills. — They are unimpressed by job seekers who walk in unannounced and expect an interview, who send duplicated form-letter applications, or expect promises or a quick decision on their application. — Print journalists who aspire to earn bylines and public recognition may overlook great opportunities on the copy desk.

Projects reviewed by Orem

Proposals for a rapid transit system study, a research center and a revised budget were the topics in Tuesday's Orem City Council meeting. Robert Kunz, of Mountainlands Association of Governments, asked for $170,000 to accomplish the study of the mass transit system, expected to affect Orem and Provo. The proposal was given another two weeks. Winston Crawford representing Utah Valley Industrial Development Association (UVIDA) proposed that land along 1300 south be considered for use as a research and industrial development park. This land has also been considered for the building of an auto mall. Crawford said the park would help students at Orem Technical College now under construction, and BYU students. It would also provide jobs for at least 1,000 people. The budget revisions considered minor adjustments in the revenues and expenditures in the city's budget.

Y drug abuse topic of panel

TV show awards don't affect Oscars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The words are becoming Hollywood's most overworked cliché since "Include me out" and "Even the gatesman didn't recognize him."

Award shows have flooded the television screens, with the result that never have so many been awarded so much — and for so little.

Consider the telecasts of recent and future months. ABC's "First Annual Comedy Awards," "American Music Awards," "1975 Fashion Awards," "Academy of Country Music Awards," "Tony Awards."

CBS' "Country Music Association Awards," "American Film Institute Life Achievement Award," "People's Choice Awards," "Women of the Year, 1975," "The Grammys," "The Emmies."

NBC's "Entertainment Hall of Fame Awards," "Metromedia's Golden Globe Awards."

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences started it all 47 years ago with the Oscar. Has the outpouring of imitations deprived the golden statuette of its sheen?

Walter Mirisch doesn't think so.

"I am constrained to dredge up the old chestnut. 'Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery,'" says the producer who is president of the Academy.

"Evidence indicates that the Oscars haven't been hurt. In the last couple of years, the television ratings for the show have increased."

Dr. Preston R. Gledhill of the Theatre and Cinematic Arts Department has organized a reading hour today in F-201, HFAC, for the presentation of oral interpretation.

The performers are the top interpreters from the Speech and Dramatic Arts 121 classes. The advanced interpretation classes and graduate students.

Admission is free.

Program planned by stake

A joint concert by Dr. John Longhurst, organist, and Newell Day, trumpet, will be presented by the Orem, Utah Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints April 10 at 8 p.m. in the Orem Stake Center, 481 East Center Street.

Dr. R. Louder, stake president, said the recital will be an inaugural performance for the new building and 13-rank, free-standing pipe organ. Both the building and the organ are conducive to an excellent performance.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Among the selections to be performed are works by Giovanni Martini, Robert Manookin, and Louis Vierne. Dr. Manookin, a member of the BYU Department of Music faculty, was commissioned to write "Fantasia on 'A Mighty Fortress'" for his performance. Louis Vierne, composer of "Carillon de Westminster," was also a teacher of Alexander Schreiner, Salt Lake Tabernacle organist.

Although a wide selection of music has been written for trumpet and organ, only one other such duo is actively performing in this country, according to BYU music authorities.

Dr. Longhurst is a native of Placerville, Calif., but was reared in Salt Lake City, where he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Utah under Alexander Schreiner. He obtained the doctor of musical arts degree at Eastman School of Music.

Mafia film wins honor

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Carney, Ellen Burstyn and a movie about the Mafia were the stars of the 47th Academy Awards. Francis Ford Coppola's "The Godfather, Part II" won top honors with six Oscars, including best picture.

The sweep made the 36-year-old Coppola Hollywood's undisputed wunderkind, but Carney was the sentimental victor of the festivities.

"I'm numb, I'm happy, why should I be embarrassed — I'm Irish!" he exclaimed after his surprise win as best actor for playing a 72-year-old cross-country traveler with a cat in "Harro and Tonto."

Tribute to actor Carney's win was a delight to the audience, which rose in tribute to the veteran television actor. It was his first starring role in a movie.

He said his agent urged him to do the role by saying, "Do it! You are old!" But backstage, Carney, 56, laughingly said, "I'm still a kid!"

Miss Burstyn, nominated twice before finally won as best actress for her role as the errant housewife with ambitions as a singer in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

Robert De Niro, the young Mafia don of "Godfather-III" and Ingrid Bergman, one of the suspects in "Murder on the Orient Express," won as supporting performers in the 47th annual ceremonies at the Music Center.

Coppola's night The awards shaped up as producer-writer-director Coppola's night, despite heavy betting on "Chinatown," which won only one Oscar, for original screen play.

The "Godfather" sequel won him Oscars for best direction and screen play adaptation (with Mario Puzo), as well as for De Niro, art direction and original dramatic score.

It was also a "family" matter, to pun "Godfather-III" — Coppola's father, Carmine, composed the score with Nino Rota, and his sister, Talia Shire, was nominated as best supporting actress in the film.

Other nominations Coppola was also nominated in two other categories — best picture ("The Conversation"), which he produced and which competed against "Godfather-III" and for best original screenplay for "The Conversation."

Miss Burstyn, in a New York play, and De Niro, making a film in Italy, did not claim their awards. Miss Bergman was there and she received a standing ovation from the admiring audience. "Amarcord," Federico Fellini's affectionate autobiographical film of prewar Italy, was named best foreign language film of the year.

Best song Oscar went to "We May Never Love Like This Again," from "The Towering Inferno." The disaster film also won for cinematography and editing.

The closest thing to controversy came when producer Bert Schneider accepted the award for best documentary feature for his film opposing the Vietnam War, "Hearts and Minds."

The producer read a telegram of friendship from the Viet Cong delegate to the Paris Peace talks.

Later in the program the Motion Picture Academy answered through emcee Frank Sinatra. "We are not responsible for any political references made on this program tonight and we are sorry they were made."

Multiple awards "Godfather III" was the grand winner of 1974 films, scoring not only as best picture, but for direction, writing, supporting actor and original dramatic score. It's producer-director-writer Francis Ford Coppola won three of three Oscars, and his father, Carmine Coppola, was awarded an Oscar for his score.

Art Carney, who played the retired teacher on a cross-country trek with a cat in "Harro and Tonto," was the surprise winner of the best actor award.

The Carney victory was a surprise and a welcome one for the Music Center audience, which rose in tribute to the television veteran.

Carney went through the ritual of thanking his director, writer, wife and longtime agent, who told Carney to play the aging traveler, saying, "Do it! You are old!"

Ellen Burstyn won the Academy Award for best actress in her third try. She was not present at the ceremonies since she is appearing on Broadway in a play, "Same Time Next Year."

Robert De Niro, apprentice Academy chieftain of "The Godfather, Part II," and Ingrid Bergman, who played the quiet school teacher of "Murder on the Orient Express," won Oscars as supporting performers of the year.

'Jail' play begins run Saturday

The Utah Valley Repertory Theater Company is opening its season with "Liberty Jail" on Saturday, with performances at 5 and 8:30 p.m. at Mills Barn, 823 S. 1100 West, Provo.

The play, written by Orson Scott Card and directed by Robert Stoddard, tells the story of the imprisonment of Joseph and Hyrum Smith, and Sidney Rigdon, in the Liberty Jail, according to Miss Nina Beardsall, publicity director for the company.

Joseph Smith is played by Roger McDonald, who recently played Orsino in BYU's "Twelfth Night." John Huntington takes the part of Hyrum Smith. Sidney Rigdon is portrayed by Ed MacDonald, who has appeared in various BYU productions.

"There will be no reservations for the Saturday performances," said Miss Beardsall. Tickets will be available at the door.

According to Miss Beardsall, "Liberty Jail" will be presented regularly during the company's summer season at the castle.

Y recital to feature instruments

A senior recital featuring performance with five different instruments will be held April 10 at 8 p.m. in the Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC.

Included in part one of the program will be works by Messiaen, Handel, Tcherapine, Hertel, and Szalowski. Part two will be made up of jazz and rock pieces featuring the "Synthesis" rhythm section.

Ray Smith, a senior from Salt Lake City majoring in music education, will be performing on the clarinet, flute, saxophone, oboe, and bassoon.

Smith is a student of Ted Wight, David Randall, Darryl Stubbs, and Glenn Williams. The recital will be informal and a fun evening of music and entertainment.

N.Y. actors will perform

Petruchio (Peter Dvorsky) and Katharine (Gisela Caldwell) play a lively scene from "The Taming of the Shrew," a Shakespearean comedy which will be performed by the New York City Center Acting Company tonight at 8 p.m. in the Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC.

Fans pick ex-Cougar top athlete

Former BYU golfer Johnny Miller was named Outstanding Athlete of the Year in Gillette's third annual Cavalcade of Champions Tuesday.

After two months of voting by fans, Miller was awarded $10,000 for the honor.

Miller was golf's top money winner last year and had a string of three tournament wins in a row this year.

The pro golfer was overall winner in the voting and also won an additional $5,000, as did 10 other winners in the individual sports categories.

The money from the awards is to be given to a physical fitness program designated by the athlete.

The BYU golf team will receive Miller's $10,000. And the additional $5,000 was donated to the American Leadership Study Group at the Johnny Miller Camp in Scotland.

Awards of $5,000 were also given to other sports figures in the individual categories.

Winners and their sports: Muhammad Ali, boxing; Lou Brock, baseball; Jimmy Connors, men's tennis; Chris Evert, women's tennis; Archie Griffin, men's amateur sports; John Havlicek, basketball; Sandra Haynie, women's golf; Bobby Orr, hockey; Ken Stabler, football.

Each individual winner also designated to which organization the award money would be donated.

Miller, who hails from Napa, Calif., set a PGA record by capturing the first three tournaments of the 1974 tour—the Bing Crosby National, the Dean Martin Tucson Open and the Phoenix Open, and won eight tournaments overall. This was the most since Arnold Palmer won eight over a decade earlier.

Y bowlers crowned team tops

BYU male and female bowlers of the year were named Tuesday.

Jeri Winters, a sophomore from Pocatello, Idaho, was named woman bowler of the year, recording high scores this year of 254 for a single game and a 652 series.

Hal Brendle, named BYU male bowler of the year, records his high single game this year as 263 and his highest series was 666.

Miss Winters recently won the all-events title in a tournament in Boulder, Colo., and qualified for the National in Indianapolis, Ind. She didn't enter competition there because the tournament was scheduled to be held on Sunday.

Prior to her coming to BYU, Miss Winters was a student at Ricks College. Speaking of Miss Winters, BYU Bowling Coach Shafter Bown said, "When we talk about bowling at BYU we talk about Jeri Winters."

Brendle has been bowling at BYU for two years and served this past year as captain of the men's team.

Brendle recently won first place in the Provo City Tournament, as well as winning the BYU Invitational with an average of 205. In winning the doubles competition, Brendle teamed up with Drew Rowe of Modesto, Calif.

Coach LaVell Edwards, left, confers with Garth Hall, who will be new coach of Cougar running backs.

Wake Forest offense coach will direct Y running attack

Garth Hall, a native Utahn who has been serving as offensive coordinator at Wake Forest University, has been added to BYU's football staff.

The 29-year-old former Utah State player replaces J. D. Helm, coach of the Cougar running backs, who has accepted a position with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Hall went to Wake Forest in 1973 when Chuck Mills was named head coach at the North Carolina school. He coached the quarterbacks and receivers his first year there, and assumed the duties as offensive coordinator for the 1974 season.

A native of Salt Lake City, Hall played football at Highland High, where he lettered in sports. He enrolled at Utah State and for three seasons was a member of the Aggie squad.

Prior to graduation from Utah State, Hall received the H. B. Hunsaker scholarship and athletics. He was recipient of the Wayne Estes Award for a post-graduate scholar, as well as the NCAA.

Hall continued his graduate work at Utah State, and was named freshman of the year in 1969.

Expansion teams vie for NHL title

Tuesday night belonged to the youngsters as the Stanley Cup playoffs opened. They wore the uniforms of the New York Islanders, Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins—teams that weren't in the National Hockey league eight years ago.

At New York's Madison Square Garden, 24-year-old rookie Clark Gillies scored the winning goal within 10 minutes left to lead the upstart Islanders past the veteran Toronto Maple Leafs back home with a 3-2 loss and 1-0 deficit in their series.

At the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., 24-year-old Mike Murphy netted the overtime score that sent the venerable Toronto Maple Leafs back home with a 3-2 loss and 1-0 deficit in their series.

In Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, 19-year-old rookie Pierre Larouche brought the Penguins a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Blues after a pass from Vic Hadfield, who was 15 when Larouche was born. It was different in Boston, where a rejuvenated Phil

Eposito broke out of a "slump" with three goals against his younger brother, Tony, as the Bruins blazed the Chicago Black Hawks 8-2. "I'm proud of my kids," said Islanders' Coach Al Arbour after his third-year club came back from a 2-0 deficit in the third period for a 3-2 triumph that brought the Rangers to the brink of playoff extinction. "My guys have had their ups and downs all year, but they really came through tonight."

The Islanders beat the Rangers 3-2. Gillies split the Rangers defense of Gilles Marotte and Ron Greshner—a greybeard of 20—and snapped a shot past goalie Ed Giacomin to cap the comeback. The Rangers had taken a 2-0 lead on middle-period goals by Brad Park and Pete Stelmowski, but the third-year Islanders came back on tallies by 23-year-old Billy Harris and "old" Jean Potvin, 26, before Gillies' climactic score.

The Kings beat the Maple Leafs 3-2. Toronto fans may have been happier to watch the Oscars on television while their Maple Leafs fell to the Kings. The Canadian TV network didn't show the Leafs' first-game loss and the fans may have been better off.

But they missed Murphy's tally at 8:52 of overtime, set up by a "fantastic" play by Gene Carr.

Leafs' veteran Ron Ellis scored with 1:30 remaining to force the overtime. Goals by the Kings' Bob Berry and Carr sandwiched one by Blaine Stoughton before Ellis squared things again.

Penguins 4, Blues 3, Larouche's winning goal came with 3:31 remaining and capped a three-goal third period.

Pihl selected tops for week

DENVER (AP) — Raimo Pihl, who has set a Western Athletic Conference points record, was named Wednesday as the WAC Track and Field Athlete of the Week.

The BYU decathlon standout ran his points to 7,943 at the Texas Relays in Austin. He ranks third for college points behind C. K. Yang of UCLA, who had 8,089 in 1963 and Jim Bennett of Oklahoma Christian, who hit 8,072 in 1970.

Seaver 'ecstatic' as Mets beat Phillies

By The Associated Press

"I'm ecstatic!" With those two words, Tom Seaver described his feelings after outlasting Steve Carlton as the New York Mets shaded Philadelphia 2-1 Tuesday in an opening-day clash of two of the National League's premier pitchers.

In the only other NL game, Atlanta blanked Houston, 2-0. San Francisco at San Diego was rained out.

Seaver surrendered six hits, struck out nine batters and came up a winner because of two Met newcomers—Dave Kingman and Joe Torre. Kingman slugged a huge home run in the fourth inning and Torre drilled the game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth.

But the main man on this blustery opening day was Seaver, who struggled to a sorry 11-11 season last year and is the pitcher on whom so much of Mets' hopes rest for 1975.

The Phillies picked him for a third-inning run on Dave Cash's double. But Kingman retrieved that run in the fourth, golfing a two-out, two-strike pitch far beyond the left field wall.

Felix Millan opened the Met's ninth with a single-only New York's third hit and first since Kingman's king-sized homer. Then Carlton walked John Milner on four pitches and missed with his first two to Torre.

On the next pitch, Torre was swinging. "I just wanted to hit the ball hard," he said. He did, lining it to left and sending Millan racing home with the winning run. "It was exciting," said Torre. "Opening day always is. When it stops being exciting, I'll quit."

Carl Morton's five-hitter and Darrell Evan's RBI single in a two-run fifth inning carried the Braves past Houston. Morton retired 16 straight batters after a pair of first-inning singles before shortstop Larvell Blanks' throwing error ended the string in the seventh.

Shortstop Vance Law (left) appears pleased with Pollock's exploits at the plate. The Cougars lead the Northern division of the WAC with a 2-0 record and are 6-13 overall.

Oakland A's nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Minnesota Twins crushed the Texas Rangers 11-4 and the Boston Red Sox downed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2. The Kansas City-California game was rained out while the Baltimore-Detroit opener was postponed earlier by a snowstorm.

Robinson brought the large Cleveland crowd to its feet with his first-inning home run off New York's Doc Medich.

"It's just tremendous," Robinson said later as he contemplated the historic occasion: "I really can't explain how I feel. I've been manager before, but this is where it's at. I couldn't think of any better way to start my new career."

"I was extremely pleased by the way we won. It was a team effort. The guys came from behind and played together and that's what you have to do to be successful."

Despite Robinson's dramatic homer, the Indians fell behind 3-1 in the second inning. But Boog Powell, Robinson's old Baltimore teammate, drove in two runs with a home and double and Jack Brohamer drove in the other two with a sacrifice fly and a single. The sacrifice fly scored Powell, who opened the bottom of the second with a single.

Now Robinson can concentrate on being a manager rather than baseball's first black manager.

Golfers feel strain
as Masters opens

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Golf's great and great eyed each other as rivals eyed each other as rivals Wednesday. Nervously, they shared a common enemy — pressure — on the eve of the 39th Masters Tournament.

"It's the only tournament I know that you start choking at the gate," said Arnold Palmer, now a graying 45, seeking to end a major victory drought that started with his fourth Masters title in 1964.

"My attitude is good. I don't feel the world is going to collapse if I don't win the Masters this year," said Tom Weiskopf, suddenly projected into the role of co-favorite with Jack Nicklaus.

Perhaps the heaviest tension of all strummed the nerves of Lee Elder, the first black man to compete here and for months the center of world-wide attention as a breaker of racial barriers.

"I do not feel like a great man in history," Elder told a presidential-style press conference Tuesday. "And that's the way I would like to keep it."

Elder pleaded to be left alone while facing the greatest challenge of his career, and added: "I am playing well enough to win if breaks go my way."

Nicklaus wore a mantle of supreme confidence — the kind you'd expect of a four-time winner — as he returned from a weekend break with his massive hitting power and putting artistry more evident than ever.

In his practice round, he almost holed out from the fairway on the ninth hole, thrilling a clubhouse gallery. Then he spotted a couple of putts about 20 feet from the hole and knocked them into the cup.

"I am putting better," he told admirers who pursued him from the ninth green to the 10th tee. "The greens are getting harder. I putt better on fast greens."

Nicklaus, winner of his last two tournaments — the Doral and Heritage — and his former Ohio State schoolmate, Weiskopf, a pole-to-pole victor in last week's Greater Greensboro Open, have been established as the players to beat for the 1975 green jacket.

There is no formal betting here, but unofficial oddsmakers have put Nicklaus and Weiskopf at 6-1, followed by Johnny Miller and defending champion Gary Player at 8-1, with Hubert Green, Hale Irwin and Lee Trevino 10-1.

Prize money is never announced until the last day of the tournament. It normally runs over $200,000 with $30,000 plus to the winner.

Champ's
chess play
criticized

NEW YORK (AP)—The executive director of the United States Chess Club says Anatoly Karpov's comments after being named the new chess champion of the world show the Russian is an unsportsman-like "little mouse" who is "whistling in relief" because he did not have to play against Bobby Fischer.

Edmund B. Edmondson said it was "utterly ridiculous grandstanding" for Karpov to say he was ready to play Fischer, but at the same time question whether the American was now "mentally capable of playing chess."

The title passed from Fischer to Karpov last week without a match being played. This followed the American's refusal to play the Russian under conditions set by the International Chess Federation (FIDE).

Edmondson said Sunday in a telephone interview from his Newburgh, N.Y., home next to the genius of Fischer, Karpov's talent is that of a dull, plodding student.

From earth to quasar, the audience will be led on a journey through space.

The showings will begin at 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Entry to the Planetarium is through ESC 492. A nominal charge of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students and children is made.

An audience of about 60 persons can be seated at one time under the hemispherical structure to view the celestial show on the underside of the dome. A complicated apparatus creates an illusion of the sky at night.

The projector shows the appearance of the constellations of stars, the Milky Way, sun, moon, and planets in their motions, comets and other phenomena as seen at various times of the year and in history.

The BYU planetarium, the first ever built in Utah, was constructed in 1957 near the astronomical observatory on the Eyring Physical Science Center.

Cabbies learning better diction

By TOM KELLY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen cabbies got da foist verse (voice) lessons of dere lives toodday in a'ttempt to hait dem talk better wid da ridin' public.

The voice and diction class, conducted by Jerry Cammarata, who himself has a slight lisp, was held in Nathan's Famous Restaurant, a favorite Times Square eatery for the city's cabbies and sponsor of the lecture.

Cammarata told the drivers they could sound like David Niven or "at least like Paul Newman," if they had "better synergistic motor movement of the buccal cavity (da mouth)."

"Duz dat mean we gonna talk better?" one driver asked aloud as his classmates smiled.

Herbert Mendelowitz of Queens, who has been operating a hack for 18 years, said he came to the class "cause people got an idea that we all sound like dey did in the twinnies and thotties ('20 and '30)."

He said some passengers even think cabbies don't got not culture.

"One day dis couple gets in the caban — cause I like opera and classical music — dey hear it on the radio and start tryin' to guess the sing-er," he recalled.

"When I told dem who it was the woldin says, what does he know about opera?"

Cammarata asked the men quickly corrected as huckies pointed out two of their words including "throat, as guilty of such language and going."

Their replies — "throat, thank, throw, eaten, sittin' and goin'."

At one point Cammarata said there is "probably no cab driver in the city that says

"thoity told street." He was pointed out two of their words including "throat, as guilty of such language and going."

Stanley Epstein of Brooklyn said, "I come to the class to try a develop a better relationship wid the ridin' public." He admitted once in a while he will slip and say "thoid aven-oo (3rd

The cabbies are conscious that they often are the first New Yorkers out-of-towners come in contact with.

"Most of da customers we get are nice and since we are ambassadors of a kind it's nice to think you can talk proper," said Belle Berler, a widow who has been driving a hack for over two years.

Mike Johnson, cited as an outstanding player in the Rocky Mountain Wheelchair Conference, awaits a pass from a teammate. Mike was also the Veteran of the Year for '73-'74.

Rim Riders play ball

Physical disabilities have stopped many people from participating in athletics, but wheelchair basketball is bringing many of them back. The sport is growing rapidly throughout the United States and only has one rule of eligibility: all players must have a physical disability that would keep them from playing on a regular team. Age is not a factor.

The only rule changes between wheelchair basketball and regular basketball are that participants are allowed to be in the key for five seconds, instead of the normal three, and they can push forward twice with the chair before dribbling or passing, three pushes constitutes traveling. Fouls are called as often in wheelchair basketball as in the regular game, because the chair is considered part of the body; colliding with or knocking an opponent out of his chair usually results in a foul. The Salt Lake City Rim Riders in their second year took second in the Rocky Mountain Conference with a 14-5 record.

Mike Johnson, one of the leading scorers for the Rim Riders, said, "Basketball has been a major part of my life for the past two years. It has changed my attitude toward people; I take my aggressions out on the basketball court rather than people."

These men are good. The members of the team say they would like to play in the Marriott Center, but so far have been turned down.

Mike Johnson tips the ball from George Martin in an intersquad exhibition game at Payson High. An aim purpose is to raise funds for the Payson High A Cappella Choir and the Rim Riders.

In for two big ones in an easy layup is Mike Johnson, leading scorer for the Rim Riders. Johnson averages 22 points a game.

Russel Simons, an up-and-coming player for the Rim Riders, dribbles easily down court at the Special Events Center.

A disc jockey from one of the Salt Lake radio stations puts in two points in a game at the U. Special Events Center. Final score is 69-71. Rim jockies were given 60 points to make it exciting.
